CHAIRMAN GILL OF COUNTY HIGHWAY COMMISSION RENDERS A REPORT

ONLY COUNTY IN STATE TO BUILD OWN ROADS SUCCESSFULLY

ROAD BUILDING HISTORY

But $700,000 of the $1,750,000 Has Thus Far Been Expended on County Roads. Politics are Absolutely Barred.

The absolute elimination of politics and the practical application of business principles has resulted in the construction of more than 75 miles of the 187 miles of highway to be constructed by the county south of the mountains and less than $700,000 has been spent of the $1,750,000 bonds voted by the people of the county. This report on the progress of the county highway commission was given by J. B. Gill, chairman of the commission.

Taking up the discussion of good roads, Mr. Gill said:

"The subject of good roads is the most paramount subject in the United States today. San Bernardino county is the pioneer in the good roads movement in Southern California. About ten years ago a few citizens got together in this county and started a movement for good roads. As a result a bond election for $625,000 was held September 8, 1908.

"The campaign was a very vigorous and also a bitter one. There was all sorts of prejudice against good roads, and there was only a small number of the people who could read into the future. That particular bond election was simply the entering wedge. The condition of the roads in the county at that time was fearful. It was almost impossible to get to Barstow, 70 miles away from San Bernardino, and I can remember making a trip to Barstow by automobile when we lost our way several times before we reached there.

"Better roads in San Bernardino county simply became a case of necessity if the people were going to travel on the roads at all. In those days the automobile was extremely unpopular. The prejudice against it was strong. The automobile was called the 'red evil' and many people actually believed that the automobile, coupled with a good roads bond issue, if passed, would place a mortgage on posterity.

"Although the bonds were defeated the feeling for the necessity for good roads would not down, and the sentiment kept on incubating until in February, 1914, another bond election for $1,750,000 was held. This issue was greeted favorably throughout the entire county, but was defeated by a small majority.

"Indignation was great over the county as a result of the defeat of this bond issue and as speedily as possible and with a few changes in the highway commission's report another election for the same amount of bonds was called for October 20, 1914, which was carried overabundantly.

"The supervisors named the highway commission and the commission got busy as soon as the bond money was in the treasury. In fact, the highway commission met three months before the money was in the treasury and inspected the various kinds of machinery and appliances and made arrangements for bids. In this way the commission saved three months' time and was enabled to do a great deal of work more expeditiously than otherwise would have been possible.

"We found the work of constructing this great highway system a more serious task than was at first even thought of. The citizens of the county held a mass convention and decided that the highway system should be built by day labor, or, as it is known—force account. The resolution, although it carried in the convention, had opposition, and I am satisfied that although the building of the roads by day labor was favored, fully 99 per cent of the citizens thought it was an impossible thing for the county to do. Why did they think that way? Because it has never been done before in the United States—that is, as far as observation and knowledge goes. "But the people of the county de-

DANIEL RUTH'S NEW HOME IS A MODERN STRUCTURE

AFTER RESIDING IN KANSAS FOR MANY YEARS, DECIDES TO MAKE CALIFORNIA HIS HOME AND ERECTS BEAUTIFUL RESIDENCE

This week will mark the completion of the $7,500 residence of Daniel Ruth at the corner of Eighth avenue and Tenth street, and a delightful home it is.

For several years Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ruth lived in Mound Ridge, Kansas, and for a number of years they journeyed to California during the winter months but after continuing this for some time, decided that they would become permanent residents of Upland and make an construction of the home and to William Cline belongs the credit for one of the best pieces of cement work that has ever been done in the city.

Entering the front door one is immediately impressed with the completeness of his surroundings, for to the right is an attractive fireplace making the sitting room the more attractive for its being there, and just beyond, the dining room, and to the left the "den" where the male members of the family have full sway occasional trip back to Kansas to look after business interests, as weather conditions when compared, brought to their attention the fact that in Kansas they existed seven months and lived five, while here they could live at least ten.

NEW HOME OF DANIEL RUTH

Readers can readily see from the accompanying photograph that the new Ruth home is a most attractive one from the outside, while the representative of The News, who was shown through the house by Ora Ruth, who designed the new home, and C. C. Eymann, can vouch for the fact that within it abounds in comfort. Mr. Ruth stated that although he received his training as a mechanical engineer he also studied architecture and designing, and with the assistance of Builder Charles Betz, who was in charge of the construction of the house, he was enabled to work out the plan as now represented in the completed structure.

To prove to the reader that this new home is strictly modern there are a few things which go to make up the modern home of today and in the Ruth home we find a Day and Night Solar Heater, Hot Water System of Heating the rooms, Semi-Direct Lighting, Vacuum Cleaning System, Gas with modern equipment, a built-in sewing room, strictly modern bath and shower toilet rooms, as well as many other features which lend to the comfort of those residing within.

As can be seen in the accompanying view of the home, there is fully a carload of cement used in the

as to its furnishings, etc. From the den one enters the landing from the stairs which lead to the second story, while proceeding along the hall you enter the kitchen and from the kitchen you find adjoining both the dining room and the breakfast room.

The breakfast room, enameled in white, is a combination of both comfort and utility, for not only is it used for a breakfast room, but built-in and hidden from view, except when in use, is the sewing room. From the breakfast room doors open to both the sun parlor and the screen porch.

The second story is taken up largely with the sleeping apartments, each sleeping room having an adjoining dressing room, all of the rooms being finished in white.

The finish of the living rooms in the first story are Oregon pine with a light oak finish, and in combination with the magnificent lighting fixtures make a most attractive effect.

The following firms and contractors were employed in the erection of the Ruth home:

W. C. Cline, cement and stone work; Chas. Betz, carpenter and general overseer; Henry Durlig, plastering; Granger - Hall, electric wiring; Eymann - Goetz Hardware Company, hardware and plumbing; Day and Night solar heater, vacuum cleaning equipment, steam heating plant; Eymann Lumber Company, lumber and cement; Sikes-Manker Company, painting and finishing; Ora Ruth, architect.

OFFICIAL OPENING OF C. OF C. BUILDING

Monday, November 22, is the date and indications are that the date will be long remembered, for on the evening of that day the Upland Chamber of Commerce is to be host at its new exhibit building on Euclid avenue and the main line of the Pacific Electric.

C. P. Fuller, F. L. Purvis and Secretary P. W. Tonnison make up the committee in charge and not only is there to be a program of music by the Upland Concert Band, but there is to be an oratorical program in which Paul Shoup, president of the Pacific Electric, and P. W. Pontius and F. L. Annable will give addresses. President John B. Morrow of the Chamber of Commerce will give the address of welcome, and Mayor Woodbridge will also talk.

F. B. Davidson, secretary Sixth district agricultural association, with headquarters at Exposition Park, Los Angeles, will also give a talk.

Another important feature of the evening will be the refreshments, and the nature of them depends largely on the weather man. The committee is to decide this matter, but you can depend that it will be something worth while, and every citizen—men and women, old and young—are invited.

COLTON WAS HOST UPLANDERS THERE

Colton and San Bernardino celebrated the completion today at the former place of the greatest rock crusher in the West, as an adjunct to the $2,000,000 plant of the California-Portland Cement Company.

Under the auspices of the Colton and San Bernardino Boosters' Club, an inspection of the great plant had been arranged between 10 and 1 o'clock, with officials of the company as guides. The inspection was followed by a barbecue at the plant, to which 3000 invitations were issued.

With a rated capacity of 5500 barrels of cement a day, the Colton company, through the completion of its rock crusher, becomes perhaps the stellar producing concern of the West.

In connection with the barbecue there were speeches by General Manager T. J. Fleming of the cement company, E. M. Boyd, and others.

Those to go from Upland were R. F. Lemon, Mr. Lee, E. H. Haury, Judge G. R. Crane, C. C. Eymann and party, F. C. Froehde, J. W. Mehl, J. E. Anderson, Mayor Woodbridge, A. H. Johnson and C. V. Lambright.

F. C. THOMAS BUYS UPLAND AUTO CO. GARAGE ON EUCLID OF NILS ANDERSON

ANDERSON FAMILY REMAIN RESIDENTS OF UPLAND THEY LIKE IT HERE

CHAS. A. RUSCO IS AGENT

Mr. Thomas, Formerly of Pomona, Entered Garage Business in 1903 and Followed That Line Since. Proposes Changes.

A business deal was consummated yesterday by which F. C. Thomas, who has been in the garage business in the city of Pomona since 1903, becomes the proprietor of the Upland Auto Co. Garage, known throughout the city as "The Garage on the Avenue," purchasing both the business and the building of Nils Anderson.

In conversation with Mr. Thomas yesterday he stated to a News representative: "I have long lived a neighbor to the city of Upland and during those years I have taken considerable interest in your city, both because I admired its progressiveness and because within its confines I have many friends and relatives, of whom I think a great deal. It has been my desire to become a resident, and when the opportunity came to purchase this garage I immediately became interested. First, perhaps because I have been thoroughly trained in the business, and second, for the reasons stated before. I take possession Thursday, November 11th, and believe I have purchased a garage equipped with machinery that can turn out the work in a highly workmanlike manner, and I have one or two changes and additions in mind which I believe will greatly improve conditions here."

In talking with Nils Anderson, who sold the garage to Mr. Thomas, he stated: "It's been a case of too much business with me. With my ranch and many other varied business interests I believed that I had entirely too much taking up my time and so I decided to sell the business, but not to move from the city of Upland. Mrs. Anderson is enjoying fairly good health here, my daughters like to live here, and this is where we shall make our home, although I shall be away a great deal of the time."

"I wish you would thank the people of Upland for me for the patronage they have given the institution, for I surely appreciate it, and hope my customers will continue to patronize Mr. Thomas, for I know that he is thoroughly versed in the business and will give to the patrons first class service in every particular."

The garage is to be known as the F. C. Thomas Garage and within a few days Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will be located in their home here. A son and daughter will also make their home here. Miss Irma Thomas, the daughter, is attending Normal school at Los Angeles, while Earl Thomas is employed at Claremont. Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Eymann, mother of C. C. Eymann and E. G. Eymann, are sisters.

The News in behalf of itself and the business fraternity of the city desires to extend to Mr. Thomas and his family a cordial welcome and may they find here all that they could wish as an ideal town in which to reside.

The sale of the garage was negotiated through Chas. A. Rusco.

PREPAREDNESS TO BE A WATCHWORD

To date, the horse is safely locked within the stable.

And further, Southern California is not going to have a freeze this winter, but—suppose that Jack Frost should sneak in on us.

Now, this article is by way of preparation, and right now is the time to prepare with a front that means success should Jack Frost endeavor to molest us.

If our neighbor's house gets on fire we rush to his assistance and help him as best we can. Now, the orange and lemon growers of this community are in a good deal the

NEW METHOD FOR DRYING ORANGES NOW PERFECTED

GEO. STAMM AND L. F. WOODS COMPLETE SYSTEM BY WHICH FRUIT IS DRIED, THUS ELIMINATING DECAY IN TRANSIT TO THE EAST

Fruit packers, for several years, have been endeavoring to eliminate decay of oranges in transit, and through numerous regulations have succeeded to a large degree.

In the old days the handling of the orange from the tree to the packing house was not thought to be of great importance, but as the years have rolled on and men of greater foresight and a wider scope of things in general have gotten into the business, it has been their aim to eliminate the decay to a still large amount of credit should go to L. F. Woods, manager of the Mountain View Orange and Lemon Growers Association—in fact, there seems to be a sort of Alphonso and Gascon relationship between these two gentlemen when it comes to taking the credit for the success of the Stamm dryer, and for this last accessory to the Stamm dryer—artificial heat.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Woods, a News representative was shown the new plan of removing greater extent, and so a picking orange before entering a packed box. The new idea is that an ordinary house furnace with a rotary oil burner has been connected with the Stamm dryer through the use of the blower. That explains the new idea, but if you tell this to a packing house man he holds up his hands in holy horror, for a house furnace with an oil feed in a packing house would run the insurance rates so high that it would be impossible from a financial point of view.

Carrying out to a still greater extent this one idea, George Stamm last year put into operation a fruit dryer in the packing house of the Mountain View Orange and Lemon Growers Association, so that oranges following their washing might be perfectly dry. The Stamm dryer is recognized as one of the foremost institutions in the way of packing house equipment today, for it delivered the goods—but experienced packing house men wanted something more.

If an orange enters a packed box with a single iota of moisture upon its surface, right in that single particle of moisture is the foundation for the decay which has caused fruit men a world of trouble, and cost the grower a mint of money. The demand was, therefore, a natural one, for it was necessary in order that the marketing of citrus fruits from three to four thousand miles away might be carried on successfully.

In the successful operation of the Stamm dryer Mr. Stamm states that every particle of moisture from the orange before entering a packed box.

About the easiest way to explain the new idea is that an ordinary house furnace with a rotary oil burner has been connected with the Stamm dryer through the use of the blower. That explains the new idea, but if you tell this to a packing house man he holds up his hands in holy horror, for a house furnace with an oil feed in a packing house would run the insurance rates so high that it would be impossible from a financial point of view.

But the furnace is built along a unique idea, as simple as A. B. C., but it took a man with some brains to put it together, and whether it was L. F. Woods or George Stamm that did it, we're not going to say—but it was either one or both of them—and there you are.

In the furnace, which is located within the packing house, is a rotary burner, operated by a flow of water, a needle valve regulating the flow of oil which is just ordinary 20 a gallon quality. But the oil feed is not by gravity.

If a packing house should undertake to feed oil into a furnace by gravity, insurance companies would immediately refuse to take the risk, so it was up to these gentlemen to think out a different idea, which is very simple, yet complex, and it is proving more than satisfactory.

All hats off to the George Jr. boys, for they certainly played some fast basketball. In the first half they had the Upland boys hested to the tune of 18 to 4. It took the Upland boys that long to get accustomed to the poorly-lighted court. But in the second half it was a different story, the Upland boys coming out on the long end of a 19 to 6 score; but George Jr.'s lead of the first half was too large to overcome.

The Upland team plays Ontario team on their court this Thursday evening.

START OF TEST OF COUNTY CHARTER IN COURT TO DETERMINE ACTION

COLTON MAN SAYS DESIRE OF VOTERS SHOULD BE CARRIED OUT

STRICTLY A FRIENDLY SUIT

Stated by Their Ballots Change in Charter Was Wanted, but it Hasn't Been Done. Wants Position Public Administrator.

Hiram H. More, of Colton, a supporter of Supervisors Riley, Kincaid and Horton, Tuesday opened a test of the county charter with the formal request for the appointment as coroner, and announced through his attorneys that if the board does not make an appointment he will at once file a mandamus suit to force the filing of what he declares is a vacancy.

In his communication, More declares by reason of the charter amendment of 1914 it is the duty of the supervisors to appoint suitable men to fill the county offices.

If More's theory is correct there are vacancies in the offices of coroner, public administrator, tax collector and recorder. These offices by the original charter were consolidated with other offices, and More's contention is that the amendment by providing for the election of officials by "general law" re-establishes the former system in that the above listed offices are provided for by general law.

Attorneys R. M. Hargue and R. B. Goodcell represent More.

The supervisors sent the communication to District Attorney Duckworth for his opinion.

"The action is entirely a friendly one. A court decision will be necessary to determine the exact status of the charter since it was amended and clear up uncertainties," said Attorney Goodcell.

Will Decide All

"Will a decision on the question as to whether a coroner should be named, serve to decide if vacancies also exist in the offices of recorder, tax collector and public administrator?" Goodcell was asked.

"Yes, it is all the same issue," he said.

"This is not a political fight. Mr. More believes that if the vacancy is filled, he stands a good chance to receive the appointment," said Attorney McHargue.

The office of recorder is now directed by Harry Allison, as deputy under County Clerk L. R. Patty, who is technically the head of the office. George W. Loring occupies the same position in the tax collector's office, which is under the jurisdiction of Treasurer M. W. H. Williams. Sheriff J. L. McMinn is ex-officio coroner and District Attorney T. W. Duckworth is public administrator.

The petition of More filed with the board of supervisors is as follows:

"Whereas, an amendment was adopted to the charter of the county of San Bernardino at the general election held in November, 1914, which said amendment was duly ratified by the legislature of the State of California and is now in full force and effect;

"And whereas, by the terms of said amendment to said charter, it becomes the duty of your honorable board to appoint suitable men to fill all the county offices of San Bernardino county, as provided by general law;

"And whereas, a vacancy is now existing in the office of the county coroner of said San Bernardino county, therefore I, the undersigned, respectfully petition your honorable board to appoint me coroner for said county of San Bernardino."

(Signed) HIRAM H. MORE

District Attorney Duckworth last night said:

"I have not yet received the papers in the matter from the board of supervisors, and have no preliminary opinion I could express. Late this afternoon Mr. Goodcell talked with me briefly about the matter and said he would like to go over the question with me, that the petition was entirely a friendly proposition to clear up the charter."

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1915

TAKING IT by far and by large, the following description of a morning's snooze is very good indeed, and we're wondering if the man with a snore that echoes and re-echoes throughout the night really takes a morning snooze to fit the following description: "An old moon, like a wrecked ship white-sailed, was careening on a sky like a violet sea. Swarms of stars like tiny silver birds hung about that ship; myriads of clouds like filmy fairy fish floated in that sea. A breeze brought the breath of the hyacinths into the room; then the daffodils. A bird dropped a little jewel of sound into the quiet air, another and another until the world was full of wide-awake peepings. Suddenly above the furry tree-line appeared a rose-gold disk."

WE NOTICED an article in a daily paper the other day headed, "Bryan Makes a Statement." Now does it make any particular difference whether Bryan makes a statement or not and is there really anything startling in that announcement. Bryan has been making statements pro and con—mostly "con"—ever since we remember, and then in the middle of the fight showed the yellow streak and quit. Now, if Bryan keeps on making statements that "said-Wilson-to-Bryan-good-bye-and-God-bless-you" sort of atmosphere between the President and his former secretary of state is liable to change something like the take-off on the trade mark of the Victor talking machine which readers will remember as being that of a dog before a phonograph and recognizing his master's voice. The take-off was somewhat different, however. The dog was formed in a half-moon endeavoring to get away from the phonograph, while from that instrument came the words, "Git it! 'ell outa here."

BY WAY of gubernatorial timber The News would like to make a few remarks. It is whispered from one end of the State to the other that Governor Johnson wants to be a United States senator and that Governor Johnson also wants Lieutenant Governor Eshleman to be the next Governor of the State of California, presumably that Johnson might still be, to a certain extent, dictator. Now, this may be a one-man State, but we doubt it, and when it comes to naming the next Governor of the State of California it is more than likely that the voters will have something to do with that matter. Therefore The News desires to call the attention of the people of this county to the fact that there is a man in this county well equipped to become the Governor of this State, and that man is E. D. Roberts of San Bernardino. Mr. Roberts, at one time State Treasurer, is known from one end of the State to the other as a man well informed on the needs of this, the greatest State in the Union, and if it's capable men that are wanted, let us get firmly behind Mr. Roberts during the coming campaign.

MR. H. C. HOTALING, a friend of Geo. R. Crane's of this city, and a man who stands high with the people of Minnesota, has been suggested as a candidate for governor in that State on the Republican ticket, and, judging from our limited acquaintance with Mr. Hotaling, the State of Minnesota couldn't make a better choice. William T. Bell, writing in the St. Paul Dispatch, says:

"Hotaling is a good business man, has positive convictions on all important public questions and expresses them freely, but in moderate language. He always has been a booster for all Minnesota. He was one of the first to commend the trip of Southern Minnesota legislators through Northern Minnesota, and to propose that the northern members return the visit, at the same time predicting the speedy arrival of the time when candidates for the legislature, in order to be successful, will be required to prove that they have accurate knowledge of the entire State and its needs."

Here's to the success of Mr. Hotaling, and if it were possible we know of many newspaper men in this State who would like to journey back to Minnesota and cast a vote for him, knowing that the people of Minnesota could not make a better choice.

SOME OF YOU MARRIED MEN who believe that the main idea of your married existence is to pile up a few more dollars before the final summons comes—just wait a minute. The News man desires that you read carefully the following, and if it fits your case, think about it for a time:

"Yes, sir! Ever know one of 'em married for as long as ten years that didn't in her secret heart have a sort of contempt for her life partner as being a stuffy, plodding truck horse? Of course they keep a certain dull respect for him as a provider, but they can't see him as dashing and romantic any more; he ain't daring and adventurous. All he ever does is go down and open up the store or push back the roll-top, and keep from getting run over on the street. One day's like another with him, never having any wild, lawless instincts or reckless moods that make a man fascinating—about the nearest he ever comes to adventure is when he opens the bills the first of the month. And she often seeing him without any collar on, and needing a shave mobbe, and cherishing her own secret romantic dreams, while like as not he's prosily figuring out how he's going to make the next payment on the endowment policy."

"It's a hard, tiresome life women lead, chained to these here plodders. That's why rich widows generally pick out the dashing young devils they do for their second, having buried the man that made it for 'em. Oh, they like him well enough, call him 'Father' real tenderly and see that he changes to the heavy flannels on time, but he don't ever thrill them, and when they order three hundred and fifty dollars' worth of duds from the Boston Cash Emporium and dress up like a foreign countess, they don't do it for Father, they do it for the romantic guy in the magazine serial they're reading, the handsome, cynical adventurer that has such an awful power over women."

Now that you have read the above remarks and thought about them for a few minutes, wouldn't it be well for you, "father," to adopt that "devil-in-his-own-home-town" idea instead of letting number two use up all the money you have been piling up for the rainy day which has never come?

PRESIDENT WILSON has issued his proclamation to the effect that Thanksgiving day shall be held on Thursday, November 25th, and on that day the people of a nation will give thanks for the many advantages they have enjoyed during the year 1915. The President's proclamation follows:

Long it has been the honored custom of our people to turn in the fruitful autumn and to give praise and thanksgiving to Almighty God for our many blessings and mercies. The year now drawing to a close has been, while a year of discipline on account of the mighty forces at war, also a year of special blessings. Another year of peace has been vouchsafed us and we have been able to assert our rights, and the rights of mankind without a breach of friendship with the great nations. We have been able also to perform the duties and to exercise the privileges of suzerain and helpfulness. More abundant crops and financial resources have enabled us to steady world's finances and to facilitate the necessary commercial movements which war might have rendered otherwise impossible. Our people realize the part they're called upon to play at a time when all the world is shaken by unparalleled distresses and disasters. Extraordinary circumstances have done much to quicken the national consciousness and confirm our confidence in the principles of peace and freedom whereby we have sought to be guided. Out of the darkness and perplexity came the firmer counsels of politics and a clearer perception essential to the welfare of the nation. We have prosperity while others have war; we believe only that we may better perform the functions which war rendered it impossible for them to perform.

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, hereby designate Thursday, the twenty-fifth of November, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and I invite the people throughout the land to cease their wonted occupations, and in their several homes, and in all places render thanks to Almighty God.

WOODROW WILSON.

PLAIN SORE-HEADIN' adequately describes the attitude of the San Bernardino Sun editor, and we are indeed surprised. It seems that Upland and Ontario were promised before the road bond election that Tenth street, from Euclid avenue west to the county line, was to be built by the county supervisors and the county highway commission, and Upland saw to it that the promise was carried out. Now the Chino Herald says: "Chino could have Central avenue paved out of the county funds if our citizens would go after it promptly and properly. How about getting Supervisor Riley over here right away and asking him what can be done? If Chino doesn't go after this matter now, its chances will lessen as time passes." And now comes Editor Harbison of the San Bernardino Sun with just a plain case of sorehead, the first we ever knew him to get possessed of. Says The Sun editorial: "Rialto had Fourth street paved by the county, and Ontario-Upland are promised Tenth street, and the 'Herald' says that Chino can have Central avenue. But when San Bernardino asked for the paving of Mt. Vernon avenue, from the north city limits to Fifth street, and for Highland avenue across from G to A streets to complete through county highways, nothing doing."

Coming from a San Bernardino newspaper man, such remarks are indeed surprising. The county highway system, as laid out, makes San Bernardino city the hub for each and every road until that city has county highways east, west, south and north, as well as between and betwixt, and because Upland and Ontario succeeded in having Tenth street west from Euclid avenue, which is owned jointly by the two cities, paved by the county, a wail must ascend from San Bernardino to which all county highways lead.

But by way of rubbing it in—if San Bernardino had a man that could talk as fast and say as much and do it as pointedly as J. B. Leaman, who headed the Tenth street delegation, San Bernardino might have fared better. However, that road will soon be done, then come over and ride on it.

THIS IS a call to arms! One of the most important pieces of legislation before the next Congress will be consideration of an appropriation to save the citrus industry of the United States from destruction. The Florida State delegation is a unit in making this their paramount business in the next Congress. They are seeking the support of delegations from the seven other citrus growing States.

This State with heavy citrus growing interests is vitally concerned and should co-operate in every way possible with Florida to get this appropriation.

Horticultural experts.—U. S. government agents,—say the citrus fruit trees of this country will soon be wiped out if the citrus canker now festering in our groves is not exterminated entirely from this country.

This disease is already wasting groves in Florida, Mississippi,

If you want to live in the kind of a town
Like the kind of a town you like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
And start on a long, long hike.
You'll only find what you left behind,
For there's nothing that's really new.
It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town.
It isn't your town—it's you.

Real towns are not made by men afraid
Lest somebody else gets ahead.
When everyone works and nobody shirks
You can raise a town from the dead.
And if while you make your personal stake
Your neighbor can make one, too,
Your town will be what you want to see.
It isn't your town—it's you.

Alabama, Louisiana and Texas. California, Arizona and Georgia while still free from the pest, are in great peril and are vigorously co-operating in this campaign for a Federal appropriation. This industry represents more than a billion dollars in actual money, besides furnishing employment for hundreds of thousands of persons.

This epidemic is beyond the control of any State. It is no respecter of State boundaries. It must be eradicated in all States simultaneously in the only possible way,—by drastic government action.

The United States government, by the way, let this disease into the citrus groves through a Southern customs house, on nursery stock imported from Japan.

It is real economy for the government to spend a relatively small amount of money to preserve a billion dollar industry. The hope is pointed out to the government that eventually by thus safeguarding the citrus industry of the United States, this country will become the citrus market for all the world, since the groves in China, Japan and the Philippines are already in process of destruction.

WISE GOVERNMENT

The United States government knows nearly everything. It can tell you how to trade with South America, how to pick out a farm in Alaska, how to make the best use of low-grade fuel and how to make sulphuric acid; it can instruct you as to the viscosity of porcelain bodies high in feldspar, and make you familiar with the use of sodium salts in purification of clays and in casting processes; and this is only a fragment of the knowledge casually mentioned in one of the daily "Commerce Reports." In these troubled times, it is a peaceful pact to think about that our slow, patient old government should be so quietly at work on problems so far from catastrophe and waste.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Studebaker

—without exception, the 1916 Studebaker cars are the best that Studebaker has ever built

To the man who knows Studebaker, this means very much—it means almost limitless resources, 148 acre plants (the largest in the industry) and the long years of manufacturing experience that name of Studebaker stands for—it means cars that DESERVE to be called sensations.

The Forty H. P. FOUR at $885

is the FIRST 4-cylinder of its POWER, size and quality ever offered under $1200. The new motor, enlarged to 3½ inches in bore, develops 40-45 horse power—and is a marvel of flexibility and silence.

The body is longer (wheelbase increased to 112 inches) and is larger in every way. It is not only extraordinarily comfortable for 5 passengers, but gives emergency room for 7 people when the folding seats in the tonneau are raised.

The Fifty H. P. SIX at $1,050 is not a "Little Six" built to fit a price, but a big, stylish, 122-inch, 7-passenger car. And for its weight, it is the MOST POWERFUL Six ever built. The larger motor, increased in bore to 3½ inches and exhibiting many notable refinements in design, develops 50-55 horse power. It throttles down to walking speed on high and picks up like a flash, to sixty miles an hour. And the price of $1050 sets a new mark in the field of Sixes, for never has a car of this POWER, size and quality been offered at less than $1400 and upwards.

But all that we could say couldn't begin to picture the cars to your mind. You have to see them to appreciate them. They're the best investments on the 1916 market.

BIG BARNES CIRCUS COMING

600 Educated Animals! Program of Instructive, Laughing, Amazing Thrilling Acts, All Done By Animals

The Al. G. Barnes big three-ring wild animal circus will exhibit in Ontario, Tuesday, November 16, giving performances at 2 and 8 p.m.

Much can be claimed for the originality and genuine merit of this big circus. There is all the pomp and splendor of the circuses we have known in the past; all the glittering tinsel, sawdust rings, inspiring music and grand entrance of stately horses, ponies, elephants, performers and clowns. Peanut and pink lemonade vendors cry their wares and add to the general good spirit; yet, when the performance starts, one instantly recognizes a wide departure from the conventional, stereotyped routine which has prevailed since the earliest days of tented entertainment.

Instead of the usual, one sees the very unusual in the Barnes program. The principal acts are done by educated wild and domestic animals in two rings and a big steel-barred arena. These animal actors number 600 and are trained to an amazing degree of proficiency. Such vim and dash do they put into their work that not a dull moment is experienced from the grand cavalcade entry until the final group of man-eating lions are driven to their cages.

There are acrobats, jugglers, aerial performers, high-divers, bare-back riders and all other forms of circus entertainment, but, instead of people appearing in the acts, wild and domestic animals take their places. Lions, leopards, pumas and bears ride galloping horses; sea lions juggle balls and other articles, dogs and monkeys jump from the top of the tent into nets; elephants act as clowns and do many other comical things; high school horses and beautiful ponies appear in brilliant dances and military drills, in fact almost every species of animal is shown as an actor.

Twenty-four man-eating African lions are introduced in one act, the most sensational wild animal act ever shown. Sixty tigers, leopards, pumas, jaguars and bears are presented by a coterie of young women trainers.

A great array of clean, clever comedy permeates the entire program provided by fifty comedy elephants, dogs, pigs, goats, monkeys, ponies, zebras and danger-dynamite mules.

A glittering, mile-long street parade in which six bands take part, is presented to the public at 10:30.

"CALIFORNIA ORANGE DAY SUCCESS AS ADVERTISING FEATURE," SAYS POWELL

Enthusiastic over the widespread publicity and selling results of California Orange Day and optimistic as to the coming season's movement of the citrus crop as a result of close and extended study G. Harold Powell, general manager of the California Fruit Growers exchange, has just returned from a seven weeks' visit to the six district centers covered by the exchange, which includes the whole of the United States and the greater part of Canada in its marketing sweep. He said:

"I found that California Orange Day gave the industry the widest publicity it has ever received at one time. Reports of our agents showed that the advertising coming through this means created such a demand for the fruit that the market was cleared of the supply on hand and made way for new shipments."

"By all means California Orange Day should be made an annual feature."

"My trip was for the purpose of looking over the general situation throughout the country, to get in touch with the agencies and the division managers. I was accompanied by A. M. Mortensen, traffic manager; R. J. Grassly, advertising manager of Chicago, and Dana King, orange sales manager."

"Division meetings were held in Seattle, headquarters of the north-west division; Minneapolis, of the northern division; Chicago, central division; New York, eastern division; and Houston, southern division."

"We have seventy-seven agencies. I visited these and the sales and advertising campaign for the coming year was mapped out."

"Conditions are substantially better than they were a year ago in general lines of business; much better, I may say, than they were last June."

"This is particularly true in the south, where the cotton crop is bringing good prices. Business conditions are slowly returning to the normal, and there is a strong feeling of confidence in the south that was lacking a year ago."

"Throughout the wheat and corn-growing districts of the Mississippi valley the buying power of the producers is high and general conditions are good."

"Business is much better in the east than it was last year on account of the increase in manufactures for export trade."

"The outlook for the citrus fruit market is good. The demand for oranges at this time is the best the growers have ever known."

"It is essential in putting out our early crop, the first shipments of which will be made about December 1, that nothing but good, ripe fruit goes from here. If the customer buys a well ripened orange he will come back for the second."

"The exchange is doing everything within its power to co-operate with the Federal government in having only ripe fruit shipped. When a great deal of immature green fruit is sent out there are no return orders; the consumer prefers instead the apple or the Florida orange."

"As to the coming season's crop outlook, I would say the prospect is for as many or more lemons and Valencia as in the past and a somewhat lighter crop of navels. Of the crop as a whole nothing can be determined until the complete returns come in."

"Exchange officers believe, however, that the crop will be as great as last year's, which ran about 48,000 cars."

Advertising Manager Grassly of Chicago and W. T. Kester, vice-president of Lord & Thomas of Chicago, which handles the Exchange advertising, returned with Mr. Powell.

EDISON'S ACCOMPLISHMENTS

No man ever wrote his name so deeply into the material physiology of his generation as Thomas Alva Edison has done. The inventions of this one man have almost remade the shapes of cities and the habits of their inhabitants. He has not monopolized the task of mechanical progress, but he has almost a controlling interest. He has made it possible for people to be more comfortable and more numerous.

Mr. Edison never asked the public to make a hero of him. The public did that of its own accord. The American public likes a man who has conspicuously accomplished something, and Mr. Edison's accomplishments are beyond doubt.

But what shall it profit the nation if it's even more comfortable? There is nothing significant in numbers or in comfort. There is nothing in them to furnish an excuse for man's cumbering and defacing of the earth.

What we need now is a series of great men who will tell us what to do with the gifts that have come from the hands of Mr. Edison and his fellows. Electricity is not of much consequence if the men who use it are at heart barbarians.

"WEAR-EVER"

Known to Every Household as the Best—the Standard in

ALUMINUM WARE

Here are a few of the many reasons why you should always choose WEAR-EVER:

- (1) WEAR-EVER Utensils are light in weight, bright as silver, and absolutely pure and wholesome.
- (2) Every WEAR-EVER Utensil is made thick enough to prevent denting readily; thick enough to guarantee a lifetime of satisfactory service.
- (3) The handles of WEAR-EVER Utensils are made of the best tinned steel. Aluminum handles would get too hot. Wooden handles would burn off or break.
- (4) Aluminum rivets with large heads grip the handles of WEAR-EVER Utensils. The heads are not sunk into the side of the utensil; the side remains of uniform thickness, strong enough to hold the handle on firmly for years.
- (5) The outside of a WEAR-EVER Utensil is polished; the inside is hardened by an electrical process which makes the metal darker, harder, smoother, less liable to be discolored by food or water containing alkali or iron, and more easily cleaned than would be possible if the utensils were not so finished.
- (6) There are no joints, seams or solder to leak and give trouble.
- (7) There is no enamel or plating to flake or wear off.
- (8) WEAR-EVER will not burn or scorch food as readily as other utensils.
- (9) They retain heat longer than other utensils.
- (10) They do not contain nor form any of the poisonous substances sometimes found in iron, copper and enameled wares.

Society

Automobile Party—

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hawkinson entertained at an 'automobile party' last Friday evening at their home on Tenth street. The centerpiece of the dining table was a small automobile and garage, the menu was couched in auto terms, and the games and stunts that followed the delightful dinner were appropriate to the joys of motoring. The guests who enjoyed the evening, later to "motor" home in the gentle shower, were Misses Cubbison, Bissell, Jones and Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Williams, and Messrs. Fischer and Miller.

Honors Her Mother—

Mrs. Charles Hall entertained six ladies in honor of her mother's 61st birthday on Tuesday afternoon. The ladies brought their fancy work, filling in the time pretty fully with that. A delicious birthday cake formed the centerpiece of the supper table when the ladies gathered round to eat of the good things provided. Those who gathered to honor Mrs. Albee were Mrs. George Colborn, Sr.; Mrs. Charles Allen, Mrs. J. Rogers, Mrs. Lyman Clark, Mrs. G. H. Clem, Mrs. Theodore Saams.

Good music, a congenial crowd and a good floor—what more could one wish? Chrysanthemums and carnations were used in decoration. At intermission the way was laid to the banquet room, where the tables were beautifully decorated in pink carnations and ferns with favors at each place of a carnation. Sandwiches, olives, pickles and coffee were followed by ice cream and cake. After supper dancing was resumed. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mehl, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Annual Banquet—

One of the pleasantest, and perhaps one of the most appreciated, social events of the year is the annual get-together or banquet of the Sentinels of the M. E. church, perhaps better known as the Post class. This banquet is held annually, on or about the second Tuesday in November, and the gathering last Tuesday evening in the Sunday school room at the church was surely a good one. There was about eighty present to partake of the splendid feed which the committee had prepared, and everybody proved their Methodist training to enjoy a real chicken dinner. Mr. S. L. Cole acted as toastmaster and proved himself well provided with wit, and some splendid responses were made by other members of the class, including the teacher, Mr. Post, who has been the head of this class since its organization in the fall of 1906. Here's wishing many more of these pleasant annual gatherings.

Circle Girls Entertained—

The Circle Girls of the Mennonite church were entertained last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Isaac Habegger and a delightful evening was enjoyed. After an evening taken up largely with a business session and fancy work, refreshments were served by the hostess.

UNIQUE EVENT AT WOODBRIDGE HOME

And the Mayor was host. With the idea of spending an evening discussing the needs of the city, as well as the future problems that were likely to appear, Mayor Woodbridge invited some twenty-five city officials, Chamber of Commerce men and those with whom he had worked in his capacity as Mayor, to his home last evening, and a delightful occasion it was. At seven o'clock the guests assembled and a short time afterward were invited to the dining room where a six-course dinner was served, and while those hungry men partook of the many tempting viands, they could readily see that Mrs. Woodbridge and the Mayor's sister, Miss Woodbridge, were behind the scenes assisting in making the evening complete.

Following the dinner, numerous speeches were made regarding the welfare of the city and the future plans of the Chamber of Commerce, the City Council and its committees were gone over, and many excellent ideas and suggestions developed. One of the entertaining features of the evening was finding which place card belonged to which guest and the reader will find following the guests present and the unique ideas of the Mayor in placing them at the table:

C. V. Lambrigger, City Hall, "He won't be happy till he gets it."
A. H. Johnson, grocery box, "Why go hungry while I am here."
C. E. Grier, new invention cash container, marked "Commercial National Bank"; "Come and see our new fixtures."
J. F. Anderson, fumigation tent over tree and bug labeled "Asafoetide Tremoloso"; "discovered south of the Santa Fe."

J. C. Mehl, rocking chair, "You furnish the girl and I will furnish the house."

R. E. Swing, manakin in judge's ermine and wig, "He don't know where he's going, but we know he's on his way."

Geo. R. Crane, small crane and an automobile, "If to over-speed you do incline, remember this: I take the line."

F. H. Manker, automobile pump engine, "His next recommendation."

Mr. Holt was at one time a partner in the confectionery here now known as the Chocolate Shop.

A man was passing the Mehl Hardware the other day and a light in the window happened to hit him rather forcefully in the eye, and he wondered what that light was made of. Those lights are the result produced with the new nitrogen globe, which the Mehl Hardware carries not only for house and store lighting, but for headlights for your automobile as well.

ORPHEAN QUARTET AT CHAFFEY UNION HIGH

Tomorrow (Friday) evening, November 12, Chaffey Auditorium will be crowded for the second concert of the Chaffey Entertainment Course and if "The Orpheans" please the people of Ontario and Upland as they have pleased the audiences in nearby cities, it will be a happy crowd.

Last week the Orpheans sang at Santa Ana. The opera house was filled to capacity, every seat for the entire series of five numbers having been sold in advance at two dollars. The Santa Ana Daily Register said of the program:

"The program opened with the lively quartet, 'Swing Along,' which put the audience in time with the entertainers. This was followed by the classical 'Little Jack Horner.'

"Mr. Dennis sang a beautiful ballad, 'Bendeme's Stream,' followed by a quartet arrangement of the old Irish love song, 'Kathleen Mavourneen.'

"Then came 'Monkeyland,' which brought down the house, the action and facial contortions adding to the effect. The coon song, 'Mammy's Bright Lil' Lamb,' was made doubly funny by Mr. Crumbaker.

"The quartet by the brass, 'O, Italia Beloved,' was very enjoyable, and putting aside their horns the company sang a little coon lullaby, 'Don't You Cry, My Honey.'

But there is not time to quote the Register in full. The Orpheans have been singing together for years, and in their quartet work have reached an enviable harmony and preciseness of attack. Their brass quartet numbers are unique and the impersonations and songs illustrated with cartoons, help to make a balanced program that is delightful.

The great crowd that greeted the Kellogg-Haines Singing Party the other day gave assurance of the success of the winter entertainments.

CITRUS CANCER— AND WHAT IT IS

This disease, as best can be learned from reliable authorities, is native of Korea, and from that country found its way into Japan and the Philippine Islands. From Japan it was introduced into the United States on a shipment of nursery stock passing through the Custom House of the United States government—the importation being made by a nursery concern in Texas. From Texas it was brought into Florida on a shipment of nursery seedlings and first made its appearance in the vicinity of Miami, Dade county, and Monticello, Jefferson county, about three years ago. It is prevalent today in Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana, where it no doubt spread from Texas.

Students of horticulture, experts of the Department of Agriculture of the United States, as well as recognized authorities in Japan, have devoted much time to the study of this disease, and so far as a cure or method of control is concerned, they are in the same position as our leading medical authorities occupy as to tuberculosis—nothing has been found which will effect a cure. It thrives in spite of the Bordeaux mixture, which is the strongest known solution we can apply to our trees.

To sum up a very interesting address by Dr. W. T. Swingle, of the Department of Agriculture, delivered at Gainesville, Florida, October 6, 1915, upon the occasion of the Citrus Seminar, he stated that his only recommendation for the permanent extermination of citrus canker is destruction by fire of the groves in which infections exist and isolation of the area for a sufficient length of time to make sure the bacteria in the soil have been killed before the land is replanted.

The disease discovered in Dade and Jefferson counties was unknown and its destructiveness not suspected, consequently a proper quarantine of the nurseries could not be legally enforced. As soon as the dangerous nature of the disease was known, rigid quarantine was at once established, but previous to this time more than five hundred shipments from the infected nurseries had been made to almost as many different localities in this State.

With very little exact knowledge upon which to work, the growers of Dade county began their fight against this new disease. As it was somewhat similar in appearance to diseases that could be controlled by spraying, that method was first used, but it was soon found that none of the known sprays were successful. The trees were cut back to the trunks and larger branches and then painted with a strong fungicide or germicide; but when the new growth appeared it was infected as badly as ever, and it was found that in the work of pruning the disease had been spread by means of the tools, hands and clothing of the workmen. As a last resort, the growers began to burn the infected trees, using an oil spray on the principle of a giant blow torch. In this way the tree was consumed and the ground around it sterilized. This method proved effective in the extermination of the infected trees, but the cost of searching out infections and burning them was a very difficult and expensive task.

The growers of South Dade county were the first to organize effectively for carrying on the work of canker extermination. They were followed by the North Dade county association. Hardships and sacrifices have been made by many to save property in every infected territory of Florida. A recital of some of these would mean interesting reading for the American citizen, exemplifying that spirit of citizenship which has predominated since the days of the American Revolution. There are those who have mortgaged their homes to contribute to this fight; others who have divided their property, selling one-half to save the other.

Six hundred thousand nursery trees in one county alone have been destroyed—some properties entirely effaced from existence. Thousands and thousands of grove trees ranging from one to twenty years of age, some carrying as much as twenty-five boxes of fruit, have been burned to the ground. If the property loss to date were accurately computed it would reach millions of dollars. Approximately $300,000 was subscribed, and has nearly all been spent in locating infections and destroying the trees so found. Yet this "grim reaper" of the citrus industry continues to spread up and down the East Coast of Florida, and new infections are appearing in other parts of the State, traceable in every instance to trees originating in the nursery which brought in the infected foreign shipment.

From two small infections, one in North Florida and the other in South Florida, which were brought into the State in November, 1911, the disease has spread to such an extent that to date it has been found in seventeen counties of Florida—from Santa Rosa in the northwest to Dade in the southeast and from Baker in the northeast to Hillsborough, De Soto, Pinellas and Lee in the southwest. It has also spread over practically all the citrus districts of Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. Citrus canker is more contagious than smallpox, more infectious than typhoid, and to the citrus tree is more deadly than the bubonic plague is to man. It comes as a thief in the night. It is carried by so many agencies that the prevention of its spread is impossible so long as a single infection exists. Birds, grasshoppers, dogs, cattle and the human agency are most responsible for its dissemination. A bird, alighting for a moment on an infested tree, will carry the citrus canker germ a mile or more into an adjacent grove if its flight is so directed.

Just about one year ago the growers of Florida, realizing that this was a State fight and no longer the problem of one locality exclusively, raised, through voluntary subscriptions from the growers and the affiliated citrus interests, approximately $100,000. Prior to that time thousands had been raised by the individual counties to carry on the work of canker eradication in those districts where infections were found in groves owned by their citizens. Of this $100,000, approximately $22,000 came from the Federal government in Washington—the government appropriating $35,000 to aid in the fight, giving $22,000 to Florida and the balance to the other States affected. This amount was considered sufficient to carry on the fight until the Florida State Legislature convened in April. When that body met it appropriated $125,000 for immediate use and created the State Plant Board, which assumed entire charge of the work. This fund is now being expended at the rate of $16,000 per month and will be exhausted by February, 1916—if not sooner. The Florida Legislature does not convene again until April, 1917, and the prevention of the spread of citrus canker is now considered beyond the assistance of State aid.

Under the auspices of the State Plant Board the Plant Commissioner has destroyed thousands of trees. Recent investigations of the pathologists, however, show beyond controversy that the cultures of these bacteria live and thrive in the soil, should it become contaminated, for several months thereafter and continue to spread to adjoining trees. Within the past two weeks three centers of infections have developed in Hillsborough county—one of eighty trees, one of two trees and another of seven trees. A study of the map showing these centers of infections in other counties indicates that the scope of territory is constantly enlarging, and where groves as first developed an infection on only one tree, it has now become necessary to remove several hundred trees. In one territory, owing to the lack of funds, regular weekly inspections were abandoned for two months, and upon the inspector's return more than five hundred new infections were found.

Thus it will be observed that the present method of destroying only the infected trees in a grove does not accomplish the desired result, and complete eradication can only take place through confiscation and destruction by fire of every tree in the area immediately surrounding the infection. This means a complete loss of property to the owner, but if the disease is not checked in this manner the grove will, of course, be subjected to a like fate eventually, and in the meanwhile adjacent property is becoming infected and the industry drawing nearer its end. This disease not alone affects the leaves, twigs, limbs and trunks of the trees, but the fruit also. The fruit from canker-infested trees is worthless, and is not marketed, but, in all cases, destroyed at the grove.

This recital of conditions in Florida is typical of what is to be found in Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas, and, knowing the wonderful rapidity with which the disease spreads, the States of Arizona and California are also badly threatened. This movement toward extermination of citrus canker from the United States is joined in and concurring by the adjoining States in which it exists. The proposition is economic—it has to do directly with the cost of living. The citrus industry of this country is hanging in the balance. Canker is fast spreading over the Orient and other citrus countries, and if the industry is preserved in the United States, we will be in a position to supply not only the market of our country, but also the markets of the world. If not preserved, citrus fruits from only a few foreign countries will be available at greatly increased prices.

This proposition vitally affects a large area in the United States and hundreds of thousands of happy and prosperous farmers, many of whom have spent a life-time in bringing their properties to the present state of development. This disease is a menace to the entire industry of all citrus producing States in the country, and if not checked NOW, while within human power and without great loss to the government, it will depreciate the value of hundreds of thousands of dollars invested in packing houses and other equipment, with the result that thousands of persons who have been educated and trained in that line of work will be forced out of employment.

At a meeting in Gainesville, Florida, October 6th, where several hundred growers from all Florida were assembled, a committee of five was appointed and charged with the responsibility of presenting this condition to the Congress of the United States and seek at their hands an adequate appropriation to meet the situation now—while it may be considered in its incipency—rather than continue to exert the feeble effort of the past and lose the fight entirely. This committee has undertaken the task with a determination to present the cold facts as they exist to every representative and senator in the Congress of the United States, being firm in the belief that they will recognize in this great menace to the citrus industry a privilege which devolve upon them in the performance of their duties as statesmen. We submit that it is wise and economical to take up this problem NOW, while it is within the reach of human power to exterminate the disease, rather than to wait and lose an industry which, to Florida, represents in value three hundred and fifty million dollars, and in the United States more than a billion dollars.

Respectfully submitted,
CITRUS CANCER COMMITTEE.

"QUALITY FIRST" IS MOTTO OF FIRESTONE COMPANY

When President H. S. Firestone, of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, was asked concerning the new additions to the big plant at Akron, O., he replied: "Our growth, no doubt, seems remarkable, but more than any other factor our rigid insistence on 'Quality First' in everything connected with the manufacture of our tires is responsible for our vast volume of business."

"We make the very best tire we know how. The best brains, the finest materials, the most painstaking efforts and the utmost care are used in producing Firestones. The one idea of Quality is uppermost, both in the factory and in the many places that offer Firestone service."

"Naturally, the public is a factor in our increase, for motorists use Firestones and realize that Quality is their foremost feature. The result is more orders and the factory grows that it may keep up with this demand—a logical outcome, and one of which we are justly proud, for our plant is the world's largest tire concern. Quantity in production is excellent, but when Quality goes hand in hand with quantity, there is your ideal combination. We feel very much gratified in feeling that we are in possession of that combination."

DOUBLE HEADLINES

A missionary tells the story of a cobra which somehow got into a church in India while the people were gathered for worship. Someone saw it, went out quietly, procured a sword and coming back cut off the snake's head.

After the service the people went to look at the reptile, and a native touched the dead head with his foot. He drew it back with a cry of pain, and in an hour he was dead.

The poison fangs had the power to kill though their owner was dead. Someone says that scandal, hydra-headed, poison-fanged, lives on the garbage of the world, and slays even after it is seemingly killed.

A wise old philosopher used to say: "Give not thy tongue too great liberty lest it take thee prisoner."

That's the double deadliness of careless speaking. It injures both the speaker and the one spoken against.—Los Angeles Citizen.

Unfortunately the scenery along the straight and narrow path is less attractive than that bordering on the broad road leading elsewhere.

"There may be other Towns as Good as this one, but I doubt it"

"For this reason I have returned to the city of Upland, have purchased the Tenth Street Garage and will continue the business along the same business policy adopted by Waterman Bros., that of giving the best possible service for the cost to the customer."

THE SAVAGE STEEL TIRE IN THE EUROPEAN WAR

Arthur W. Savage, the president of The Savage Tire Company, returned recently from the seat of war, where he succeeded in placing orders with the British War Office and the French government for Savage Pneumatic Steel Tires. The tire, which is made by The Savage Tire Company of San Diego, Cal., was carefully inspected and given the most severe tests by experts of both governments and met with the full approval of each. The English army will use Savage Pneumatic Steel Tires on its dispatch cars and admiralty transports; the French on both dispatch cars and army ambulances.

The ravages of war are no more strongly emphasized anywhere than by the present condition of the roads at the front. American tourists who have enjoyed motor tours through European countries are wont to speak of the excellence of their roadways. The roads were, in fact, well built, as Mr. Savage says, but what can withstand war? The roads were of concrete, but comparatively narrow, and the passing of great armies with their swarms of cavalry and thousands of heavy artillery wagons has worn away the formerly well-kept dirt side-fills leaving only a ridge of concrete with ragged edges, in many places more than a foot high. Passing dispatch cars and ambulances going to and from the front must pull to one side or the other of this ridge and it is easy to conceive of the wear and tear on tires in climbing back on to the concrete roadway when the approaching vehicles have passed. The average life of a car in service at the front is about three weeks. Under such conditions, the ordinary rubber tire is not practical, hence the interest shown in the Savage Tire by the British and the French governments.

TIME TO WALK

The rushing car for him who may, The horse for him who wills, But let me walk this autumn day Across the wind-swept hills, And feel the crisp sod under foot And kick through drifted leaves, And fill my mind with golden loot, My hands with golden sheaves, And pause in every lovely spot, Which else were wasted by, And learn what they discover not, Who down the high road fly—

Let others thrall to heedless speed, But let me walk today; With time what Nature writes to read Where beauty hides away!

I'll catch the vigor from the wind, As only walkers may, I'll find the haunts which none can find

But those that idly stray; I will breathe deep from exercise And bring home goodly gains; The wood-spring's sparkle in my eyes,

The fall glow in my veins; The vision of the master art In memory enshrined, The clear creek's singing in my heart

And God's peace in my mind—

The speeding car for him who may, The horse for him who wills, But let me walk this autumn day Across the wind-swept hills.

—Lee Shipley.

CONSCIENCE MONEY

Hardly a more significant comment on the human struggle for right conduct could be found than in the so-called conscience fund at Washington, D.C., to which, since the year 1811, nearly half a million dollars has been sent anonymously. The newspapers reported the first $5, and since then the contributions have varied from nearly $1 to nearly $20,000. Here is seen the desire to make restitution and, withal, fear of open confession. It is the certainty of condemnation from his fellows that debars such an offender from the fuller peace and cleansing won by admission of the wrong. So do we put stumbling blocks in one another's way. Would not a more honest self-knowledge, however, bring more of us to the place where Lowell saw "How thin a plank of circumstance" divided him from those who society classes as offenders?—Christian Science Monitor.

MEXICAN PROBLEM

After all, the recognition of General Carranza does not close the Mexican problem. We cannot now wash our hands of the situation. The new government will have to fight for its life against revolutions based on American territory. If General Carranza is to succeed it will be necessary to keep arms and supplies from his opponents, to stamp heavily on conspiracies engineered on this side of the Rio Grande.

Nor is that all. The reconstruction of Mexico means financial aid from the United States, but that will be given only if our government becomes sponsor for General Carranza. In other words, our intervention in Mexico continues. We cannot ignore the sovereign state.

The business of lending money to Mexico means some kind of supervision of the Mexican government. The task of our diplomacy now is to use the power of American credit for an insistence that Mexico shall organize on a solid foundation. This means that officially or unofficially the state department will have to be consulted about how the money loaned to Mexico is spent.—New Republic.

ATTENTION!

The attention of comrades of Ontario Post G.A.R. is called to our regular meeting day, November 18, 2 p.m., at Post Hall. Comrades who participated in the Grand Review of the Army of the Potomac, and General Sherman's Army, May 24 and 25, 1865, will give an account of that historical pageant, and their impression of Washington as it then appeared. This will be followed by remarks by a comrade who attended the National Encampment of the G.A.R. in Washington and marched in the parade over the same ground that those armies did fifty years ago. He will give an account of the encampment, the parade, and Washington as it appears at the present time.

There will be music and recitations, interspersed between these remarks.

This will be an open meeting and those who will be interested are cordially invited to attend.

By order of
E. J. DAVIS, Commander.

CHAIRMAN GILL
RENDERS A REPORT

manded it and the highway commission undertook what seemed to be an insurmountable job to carry out the wishes of the taxpayers. First of all we eliminated politics of whatever kind. There are no politics in the highway commission's work. It will not be tolerated. If there had been it would have been impossible to have made the progress the commission has made in building roads.

"And I want to say here that every road that appears in the highway commission's report will be built. But in order to do this we had to eliminate the rag-tag and the bob-tails in politics. That these kind of citizens exist in this county is undeniable. They differ from the statesman in that the statesman wants to do something for his country while this type of politician wants his country to do something for him. You will always find someone among his type of politician who is ready to make a complaint about something, and then there is trouble.

"There is absolutely no friction in the highway commission, and I want to say the board of supervisors has worked harmoniously with us and there is no conflict of any character. The supervisors realize the value of business principles and have aided the commission in every way possible.

"Every business man knows that in a successful business there is just as much profit in buying the things that are needed at the right prices as the profit the merchant makes in selling his goods. The highway commission has bought on close bids, has discounted all of its bills and saved the county much money in all departments.

Few Realize Big Task

"Very few people realize the enormity of the work being carried on. We have thirteen crews at work and we have built 75 miles of roadway out of 187 miles to be laid south of the mountains, and we are finishing the system at the rate of not less than one-half mile of pavement every 24 hours.

"The highway commission selected its chief engineer and holds him personally responsible for the work of the different superintendents. If anyone complains and tells a superintendent he will take his complaint to the supervisors or the highway commission, he is fired at once. The superintendent is responsible for the work in his division. In this way the superintendent does not lose his individuality. He knows that he is held responsible. As a result, the superintendents vie with each other in seeing who can turn out the greatest amount of work with the greatest speed consistent with efficiency and economy.

"We have a perfect system, and absolute harmony prevails. We have spent $700,000 of the people's money so far and we believe it is being properly spent. Beside the 187 miles of paved highway we will build 250 miles of roads from the summit of the Cajon pass to the Colorado river. This, of course, is not permanent roadbed, but when it is finished the county of San Bernardino, which is almost an empire in itself, will have a system of great magnitude and we believe that every citizen will be satisfied that all parts have received equal recognition.

"When our system is completed we will be connected with two transcontinental highways—one by way of Needles and the other by way of Yuma. The highway by way of Yuma will be known as the Ocean to Ocean highway and the road from Needles will be called the Santa Fe-Grand Canyon-Needles highway. These highways will eventually be of the best character of construction from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Other States are voting bonds or have already completed their links of the routes and it is only a matter now of a few years before people will be traveling from coast to coast over a perfect boulevard.

Many Beautiful Drives

"We will have in this county beautiful scenic drives, such as the drive from San Antonio heights down Euclid avenue to Ontario, then to the Riverside county line and from there through the Santa Ana canyon to Orange county and then to the sea. And then another beautiful drive would be by way of Magnolia avenue in Riverside.

"The Cajon pass highway will be one of the most beautiful, scenic and picturesque drives to be found anywhere in the United States. Already $43,000 has been spent there in grading, and when we are through that road won't be over a five per cent grade over its entire length and in itself will be worth to the county the whole of the $1,750,000 spent.

"A million and three-quarters dollars seems a lot of money. It is a lot of money, but it is a mere bauble compared to the great benefits and when it is considered what the enhanced values here will mean. The increase in values will be enormous. In fact, I believe this system of highways will increase values to

STATEMENT BY PAUL SHOUP

"In view of the rumors as to the nature of the changes in Pacific Electric service, effective on the 14th inst., it is desirable to state that there is nothing in these changes radical enough adversely to affect the interests of the territories served.

"The Pacific Electric, like any other business institution, finds it necessary at times to trim its sails to meet weather conditions. This is an ordinary measure of business prudence. Such retrenchments as are to be made are based upon the principle that the public and the Pacific Electric can both get along best without that service which is least used.

"The uncontrollable causes leading to existing conditions have, of course, affected the Pacific Electric, as they have other lines of business, adversely during the last two years and the result in some sections has been quite accentuated by the competition of automobiles. Care has been taken, however, not to disturb the service essential to any community in the proposed change.

"The communities interested have been advised or will be advised to-day what these changes are, and I believe we will have their cooperation in accepting and trying out the new schedules.

"So far as the future is concerned, it is only a question of time, and I trust no great time, until Southern California, in a business way returns to normal conditions."

THE FAMOUS KILTIES

The greatest Scottish band in the world, and the pride of all Canada, was organized in Belleville, Ontario, Canada, by T. P. Power, who has piloted this famous organization through twenty different countries. Everywhere and always they have been greeted by large and enthusiastic audiences, and pronounced by both press and public one of the world's greatest concert bands.

This great attraction, with all the features that have made them famous, has been specially engaged to appear at the Bridges Music Hall, Pomona College, under the auspices of the Claremont Music Lecture Course Committee, Monday, November 15, at 8:15 p. m.

BABY WEEK AT THE ORANGE BELT EMPORIUM

This is "Baby Week" at the Orange Belt Emporium, Pomona. Three cash prizes are to be given, each being a deposit of three dollars in a savings bank to the credit of the child. There will be no riot over the decision of the judges, for the awards are not to be made on the score of beauty, but that of weight. The scales will tell the story. There is also a silver cup contest, free photographs, free pamphlets on the care of the baby and a free balloon to each child under three years of age.

such an extent that the citizens will soon lose sight of the $1,750,000 spent and be prepared to duplicate the bond issue, if not spend two or three million dollars more."

NEW METHOD FOR
DRYING ORANGES

Buried in the ground near the packing house is a tank holding 160 gallons of oil. This tank is connected with a water main through a small tank on which the low pressure of four pounds is maintained through the use of a float valve, thus the only oil in the house is that contained in ten feet of quarter-inch iron pipe. In other words, not over a pint of oil is in the packing house at one time.

Now, if water and oil mixed, this would be impossible, but as they do not mix, the reader will readily see that Messrs. Woods and Stamm have an excellent idea in use, both for good service and lack of danger from fire. The heat of the furnace can be regulated as suits the condition of the fruit, and is so distributed that it travels over the fruit through the Stamm dryer for a distance of sixty feet, so that when the fruit enters the conveyors and they dump it into the bins for the packers, the moisture on the fruit is eliminated.

Manager Woods is planning on installing a water coil in the new furnace, connected with a storage tank, the hot water to be used in washing lemons as well as the oranges.

Did you ever hear of a president of this great and glorious country taking a prize at a baby show?

There's no help for a skinny man, but the nice thing about a thin woman's shape is she can make it show up plump whenever she wants it to be.
